Re: Manyk v. Western Union Company Financial Co., et. al.
07 Civ. 6260 (GEL)
U.S. District Court for Southern District of New York

Dear Mr. Duffy:

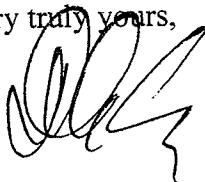

We are in receipt of your letter dated June 3, 2008. We agree to the proposed Revised Scheduling Order as included in said letter. We reserve the right to ask for slight changes in the depositions dates, given the fact that our client is Ukraine, and we may have some issues with arrival to the United States, which may or may not delay his arrival for the deposition scheduled on July 2, 2008.

In addition, enclosed herein please find our Amended Response to Interrogatories. We have amended said Response to Interrogatories to correct the typographical error in Mr. Manyk's date of birth. We corrected the year of birth from 1996 to 1956.

We are also in receipt of your rejection of our Demand for Discovery and Inspection dated May 30, 2008. We respectfully request that you agree to amend the deadline for serving our discovery demands to June 15, 2008, which would allow us to re-serve on you our combined discovery demands. We respectfully request your cooperation so that we both may avoid unnecessary motion practice. After all, we had no idea what to request until after you served upon our office the actual company structure. Our office did not receive your Initial Disclosures and the copy of the Agency Agreement between Western Union Financial Services, Inc. and Ukrainian Financial Group until April 22, 2008, which was well after the March 18, 2008 deadline to file discovery demands.

It was my understanding judge's instructions at the conference, where we originally agreed to Scheduling Order, you would serve upon us the corporate structure and Agency Agreement in advance of the March 18th deadline so that we could timely make our combined discovery requests. Kindly agree to the amendment to the discovery time so that we may re-serve our combined demands upon you.

Very truly yours,

Alexander J. Segal, Esq.

5. State the manner in which it is claimed the incident occurred: On July 22, 2004, Mr. Manyk received a Western Union Money Order from his friend, Ms. Elena Yashinik, in the amount of seventy-nine United States dollars ($79.00). The Western Union Money Order was numbered 9865448356. That same day, Mr. Manyk went to the Western Union location at 10 Deribasovskaya Street, Odessa, Ukraine at approximately 2:00PM to receive the money. The agent for Western Union at this location was the Ukrainian Financial Group who to the best of Plaintiff's knowledge leases the premises on behalf of Western Union from Soc. Com. Bank. Plaintiff completed the requisite forms and presented them to the agent in order to receive his funds. However, the agent refused to pay out the funds and informed Mr. Manyk the money order had already been paid out. Plaintiff requested further information as he had not received the funds, but the Western Union agent refused to provide any additional information and demanded he leave the premises. Furthermore, the agent insulted Plaintiff by calling him "a nuisance", "con artist", "fraud", and accusing him of criminal activity. Plaintiff requested to speak with a manager but instead of getting a manager the Western Union agent ordered the Soc. Com. Bank manager to have security guards remove Plaintiff from the premises. Shortly thereafter, the Soc. Com. Bank manager appeared and told Plaintiff she was in no way affiliated with Western Union or the Ukrainian Financial Group but she would have me physically removed from the premises if I did not leave immediately. As Plaintiff did not want an altercation, he departed the premises and contacted the local police to assist him. The police arrived at approximately 2:30PM and requested to speak with manager of Western Union or Ukrainian Financial Group and within five minutes, the manager appeared. The manager explained to the police that the money order in question had been paid by the Western union located at Aval Bank and advised them to go to that location for more details. The manager also presented documents to the police the money order in question had already been paid and that I was being dishonest. Plaintiff was taken into custody. At approximately 4:50PM, Plaintiff, while in the custody of the police, was taken to the Western Union location at Aval Bank on Sadovaya Street. The Western Union agent informed us that the money order had in fact never been paid by their office. It was later determined that an error had occurred, though a detailed explanation was never provided to Plaintiff or his friend who had purchased the money order, and the transaction had been annulled. According to Western Union, the error was not detected until the agent who had conducted the initial transaction presented her evening report. Plaintiff was released from police custody. Ms. Elena Yashnik went to the First Ukrainian International bank where the error was corrected and a new money order was issued. The number for the new Western Union Money Order was 2041382380. On July 23, 2004 at approximately 11:00AM, Plaintiff once again went to the Western union location at 10 Deribasovskaya Street, Odessa, Ukraine. He once again completed the requisite forms and presented them to the agent. Once again, he failed to receive his funds, because the agent refused to assist him because he had caused so much trouble the previous day. Plaintiff insisted on speaking with executive manager as the police had the previous day but they refused to call the manager. Plaintiff waited twenty (20) minutes for the executive manager, all the time he was verbally abused by the Western Union agent and the Soc. Com. Bank manager. Plaintiff could not take the abuse any longer and went to a phone in the lobby for public use to call the police. Before Plaintiff could reach the phone, Plaintiff was brutally assaulted by a western union employee. The employee twisted his arm behind his back and pushed him hard against the wall. The employee than proceeded to drag Plaintiff to the door, kick Plaintiff in the stomach, and throw him over a railing. Plaintiff fell approximately four (4) feet to the sidewalk. As a direct result of the assault, Plaintiff received seriously injuries which required him to be admitted to hospital for treatment. Plaintiff was hospitalized for four (4) months. The doctors advised Plaintiff that his kidney would have to be removed or else he would have constant bleeding which would cause him medical problems for the rest of his life. However, having his kidney removed had the potential to cause other problems. In the end, Plaintiff opted to not have his kidney removed.

6. State whether plaintiff, his attorneys, or any other person acting on his behalf, obtained statements from any persons regarding the incident or the events surrounding the incident: Nataliya S. Boginskaya, Alena B. Chaikovskaya, and Yevgeniy A. Shahkov. Plaintiff has provided the Odessa Primorsky District Depart of Internal Affairs with a letter by mail dated August 9, 2004. This letter detailed what happened to Plaintiff and was requested an investigation into the incidents on July 22, 2004 and July 23, 2004 and requested criminal prosecution of those involved.

Re: Manyk v. Western Union Company Financial Co., et. al.
07 Civ. 6260 (GEL)
U.S. District Court for Southern District of New York

Dear Mr. Duffy:

We are now in receipt of your letter dated June 6, 2008. We did not previously receive this letter until June 23, 2008 after our phone conversation on that same day. In this letter you discuss us failing to confirm the deposition day with you, we did have a conversation earlier this month and I told you our client would be available for deposition on July 2, 2008 and this conversation was followed up with a letter agreeing to the date of the deposition. We therefore confirmed the fact that our client would be available for deposition on July 2, 2008.

Our client will be available for deposition on July 2, 2008. Mr. Manyk has already made all the necessary travel arrangements and will be arriving in the United States from Ukraine for these depositions. Please advise us as soon as possible as to the time of said deposition and where you would like the deposition to be conducted. Please note the deposition of our client cannot be changed without our client incurring numerous expenses.

Also, you stated in your letter that your client will not be available for deposition by July 3, 2008 and that the deposition can be scheduled for some later date within two (2) weeks of July 2, 2008. We have no objection to accommodating your client's request to reschedule the deposition, however, we need an exact date and time when your client will be available for said deposition.

Another issue is the position that Western Union has taken regarding our demands for discovery and production of documents. As I understand the position of your client, they refuse to produce documents and claim our demands were served late so that they are only amenable to what you call in your letter a limited discovery. We disagree with this position.

As we already indicated to you in our June 3rd letter, we believe that we could not serve on you our discovery demands until we know who should be the proper defendant in this
